Additional 3-1-1 Information:

The 3-1-1 call center was created in July, 2006 to provide constituents with one easy number to remember to get city information and services. Performance statistics are reported both on the city website (311.hartford.gov) and in the quarterly reports given to the Court of Common Council. Those statistics are closely monitored and reviewed at monthly HARTSTAT meetings with the Departments, the Chief Operating Officer and the Mayor. The call center strives to maintain a high level of first call resolution, low wait time, and accurate information for the public. The call center attendants are able to answer over 80% of calls with no hold time and, for the 13-19% who wait in queue, the average wait time is less than a minute. In its third full year of service, the call center handled over 103,000 calls. Over 25% of its calls relate to inquiries about taxes. Currently there are four full-time employees managing the 3-1-1 Call Center. The Call center staff attempts to contact every constituent who has made a complaint (so long as it was not anonymous) to make sure that their issue was properly addressed. Customer satisfaction results are shown on the 3-1-1 website.
